PREFACE.

The study of Genealogy is both interesting and of great value. Its effects ought to be beneficial in maintaining the honor and integrity of a family extending through a long line of progenitors whose memory should be cherished with loyal devotion to endless day, and whose virtues are worthy of emulation. It is commendable to be familiar with one's family history, and eminently proper to put it on record in a convenient form for the benefit of future generations.

Such records will be of incalculable value to generations yet unborn, and will be highly prized by them, and upon the authors they will lavish lasting praise for having preserved from oblivion the traditions and history of the deeds and lives of the progenitors and their posterity.

These genealogical trees will become heirlooms in the family, and volumes will be sought for and placed in public libraries. In the family, too, they will wield an influence, as the lives of unselfish devotion to God, conscience, and family, of the forefathers are recounted, to keep unsullied the family name.

The work has been prepared at a great sacrifice of time and labor. Had all responded promptly to communications, the work would have been far easier, more complete, and less time and expense required.

The author acknowledges himself indebted to many of the family for kind favors received in the form of records and other data for the work, among whom may be especially mentioned those who have very materially aided the author in the work, foremost among them and of especial mention are—Mr. C. C. Gardner, and Will C. Headley Esq., of Newark, both having collected a large amount of data, which they furnish for use in the work. Among others are—Miss Mary Headley, of Newark, N. J., Miss Elizabeth M. Headley, of Union, N. J., Mrs. Helen T. Headley, of Morristown, N. J.; and others.

EXPLANATIONS.

It will be observed that all descendants are recorded in the regular order of birth, from the oldest down to the youngest, throughout the entire connections, each generation being marked consecutively from first to last. The Roman numerals placed before each name designate the generation to which they belong, as—

I. Leonard Headley, (First generation).
II. Thomas Headley, (Second generation).
III. Samuel Headley, (Third generation).
IV. Joseph Headley, (Fourth generation).

Beginning with the first (I) ancestor Leonard Headley. His children (II) generation; then follows Samuel Headley (III) generation; and his children the (IV) generation; and so on down to the last of the pioneers' descendants.

When marriages occur between members of the connection the husband carries the record.

In the general index will be found the names of all descendants mentioned in the book, over eighteen years of age.

To find family records see Index of Branches, where names of all of the first, second, third and fourth generations are given.

Abbreviations—B. signifies born; d. died or deceased; m. married; S. single; Twp. township; Presby. Presbyterian; Meth. Ep. Methodist Episcopal; Cong. Congregationalist.

INTRODUCTION.

The Headley family of this work is believed to have originated with one Leonard Headley, who, prior to the year 1664, came from England, landed at Boston; from there went to Connecticut and afterwards drifted to Long Island, and in the year 1664, with a large party of settlers and their wives, located and settled at Elizabeth Town, Essex County, New Jersey. Leonard Headley, being at that time married; as the records show that he took up and caused to be surveyed a tract of land in the name of himself and wife.

Leonard Headley or his descendants soon after went about five miles west of Elizabeth Town, took up land and settled what for many years was known on the maps of Essex Co. (afterwards Union County) as Headley Town, being that part of Union township now known as Unionville, in which many of their descendants may still be found, and quite some of the land that was obtained by the first settlers by occupation is still owned by the Headley family—the family seldom selling land—the fathers generally providing homes for their sons, near their own dwelling place, either by purchase or occupation. This trait of the family causing considerable difficuty in tracing of ancestors, as very few left wills, the land being generally divided before the decease of the parent or by the family afterward, and if deeds were given many were not recorded or have become lost. Another difficulty being found in that generally the family records and heirlooms were looked after by the female members of the family, who appear to have taken more interest in records and heirlooms than the male members, but through death and change of name by marriage it is very difficult to trace records and heirlooms through female descendants of a family. What little information still existed of the family of records and heirlooms was fast becoming lost or strayed.

I was greatly impressed with the little knowledge in the possession of the majority of families in regard to their ancestors, many not being able to go back of grandparents. The want of some accurate, complete and enduring record was not only felt by myself but by many other members of the family, and as there were but few very old people left in the immediate family, it could not have been obtained too soon, and would have been much more easily obtained and more accurate had it been looked after years ago.

In search for records a short time ago I became acquainted with Rev. A. J. Fretz, who, being connected with the family, has taken great interest in the work of getting records of the different branches of the family together,—Rev. Mr. Fretz's ability for work of this nature is beyond question, and through his kindness in consenting to take charge of and publish the work will have the hearty approval as well as the co-operation of the whole family.

The ancestor of the family being among the first settlers of the country, his descendants are to be found in nearly every state of the Union, and in about every walk of life.

The writer well remembers the dwelling house occupied by his great grandfather, Carey Headley, situated on the corner of what is now known as Valley Street and Vaux Hall Road, about ½ mile south of Wyoming in Union County near the Essex Co. line. The house being shingled on five sides including the roof, large wide hall-way through the center, timber cut from the woods and framed in the rough oak floors. House 1½ story dwelling, filled in with brick to the roof. The large garret making a fine play ground for children, myself and other children often using same for that purpose, or watching some member of the family weave carpet with the loom set up in the old garret. It was understood that the house was on the ground of the battle of Springfield, the left wing of the British army coming up the Vaux Hall Road from Elizabeth, for the purpose of flanking the army of Gen. Green at Springfield, the detachment of British were checked at the east branch of the Rahway River about 1000 feet northwesterly of this old house. The old house showed the effects of the struggle as many bullet holes were in its south side, and when torn down, 1874, about 25 leaden bullets were taken from same. Cannon balls, bayonets, and other articles of war equipments were around the house when I was a boy, most of which relics were used in the celebration of the battle of Springfield in 1876, and were not returned. The lone relic known to the writer is a copper cent date 1788. I have been told that at the time of this battle the live-stock of the settlers was driven over the mountain by women members of the family.

Probably the four oldest houses erected by the Headley family now standing, are the ones now occupied by Joseph B. Headley, and the one adjoining, belonging to the estate of Warren Headley, on the Vaux Hall Road at Unionville, (Headleytown). These houses, 1, or 2 of them evidently, were built by Samuel Headley and one was occupied by his son Joseph Headley. Both houses have been remodeled. Another house to the north on the same property, probably erected by Samuel Headley Jr.; and the other about one-half mile to the west on the Vaux Hall Road, owned and occupied by John Thompson Headley, now owned by Jabez Alley,—all of these houses were erected prior to 1776, as their then owners took part in the struggle at that time.

The records from these dwelling houses have been removed and most of them either lost or destroyed, and the part their owners took in the issue of 1776, or very much of it, cannot be obtained. Their owners, after taking their part in the issue of that time, at the close of the war, settled down to their farms again. Could these old houses be made to tell of the time and struggles of 1776, and the part that their owners and their sons and daughters played, their history would be well worth writing and reading, but they tell no tales, and the living and written records have disappeared.

NEWARK, N. J. Nov. 28, 1904.

WILL C. HEADLEY.

THE HEADLEY FAMILY.

The Headley Family is undoubtedly of English origin, though one tradition says they came from Scotland. The name was in the 12th century "De-Haddeleigh," and in the Latin form "de Hadleins," the signification of the name being "Of the woods." The name has in later years undergone several changes and is now variously written; as, Headley, Hedley, Hedly and Hadley. There is a tradition that two brothers, tanners and curriers by occupation, came from Manchester England, about 1665. John Hedly, one of the brothers, located himself at New Port, R. I., at the first settling of that place about 1665. The name of the other brother and where he located is not positively known, but may have been Leonard Headley, pioneer of the New Jersey Headleys, who located at first, perhaps, somewhere in Connecticut, and later at Elizabethtown, N. J., whither he came with Sir George Carteret in 1665, and where on the 19th day of February 1665, he took the oath of Allegiance and fidelity to King Charles II. and to be true and faithful to the Lord Proprietors.

The following is a copy of the Oath as recorded at Trenton, N. J. Book I. pg. 50. Secy. State Office.

"You do swear upon the Holy Evangelist contained in this book to bear true faith and Allegiance to our Soveraine Lord King Charles the 2nd and his lawful successors and the Government of this Province of New Jersey as long as you shall continue an inhabitant under the same without any equivocations or mental reservation whatsoever and so help you God."

(Signed) Leonard Headley.

The oath was taken by 65 persons in which number was comprised Luke Watson's Company of sixty emigrants. Leonard Headley evidently being one of five persons who joined the company at Elizabethtown and was one of the original founders of that place. Land at Elizabethtown was apportioned to Leonard Headley in the same proportion as to the 60 associates. In the first company of emigrants no person was admitted but church members.

On the 6th of October, 1665, a warrant for 120 acres of land was granted to Leonard Headley within the bounds of Elizabethtown of upland and meadow in proportion, in right of himself and wife. Liber 2. Cartaret Book page 3.

In pursuance of above warrant, on October 14, 1678, the lands were laid out to Leonard Headley and filed in right of himself and wife, viz—(1) First, a house lot of 4 acres bounded by John Ogden Jr. and the highway; Second, upland of 8 acres at Brocketts Spring, along the brook adjoining Hur Thompson's and a swamp; Third, upland of 6 acres lying on the way to the point bounded in part by John Ogden Jr. and John Woodruff; Fourth, a tract of 20 acres on Elizabethtown Creek adjoining Daniel De Hart, John Ogden Jr., Joseph Secords, Robert Vauquellin and J. Morris; Fifth, a tract of upland of 65 acres on N. E. end of plains adjoining Benjamin Park, Jonathan Ogden and Margaret Baker; Sixth, a tract of meadow land of 14 acres adjoining Margaret Baker in the great meadow west by a small Island, and adjoining Samuel Morris.

Leonard Headley died February 1683, leaving an estate valued at £99. 3. S^s 6. d.

He was a weaver, and also owned a sawmill. He married Sarah, who, in 1684, was the wife of *Robert Smith and was appointed administratrix of his estate as Sarah Smith.

Headley of Elizabeth Town to his former wife, Sarah, now wife of Robert Smith.

Feby 5, 1684.

The exact location of Leonard Headley's home is not known, but evidently was in or near to Elizabeth. Later generations of the family pushed a little farther west into the then unbroken wilderness, and located at what was subsequently known as "Headleytown."

The children of Leonard Headley are supposed to have been Thomas and Abner.

The associates and neighbors of Leonard Headley evidently were Robert Vauquellin, Charles Tucker, Robert Bond, Joseph Bond, Jacob Melyn, Robert White, and others.

THOMAS HEADLEY, OF ELIZABETH-TOWN, NEW JERSEY.

II. Thomas Headley. He is supposed to have been a son of Leonard Headley. Nothing is known of him except that his name appears on papers etc. in the city of Elizabeth about 1700—1702.

Of the family of Thomas Headley, nothing is positively known, but is supposed to have been the father of Samuel Headley Sr., of "Headleytown."

Of the early family connections of the Headley family but little is known and is very uncertain. In December, 1702, John Parker died, leaving his property to Robert Smith of Egg Harbor, widow Sarah Browne, Thomas Headley, and the church at Elizabethtown. This Thomas Headley was in all probability a son of Leonard Headley, and possibly may have been a son-in-law of John Parker.

John Parker, Robert Smith and John Ogden were from Long Island. The naming of Thomas Headley in the will of John Parker may show a connection between the families of Headley and Parker.

SAMUEL HEADLEY, OF (HEADLEYTOWN) N. J.

III. Samuel Headley Sr. b about 1690, d about 1755; m Mary ——. They lived in "Headleytown," (now Unionville), N. J., evidently where Joseph B. Headley now lives, and was the founder of "Headleytown." The property accumulated by Samuel Headley consisted of large tracts of land in the vicinity. They were members of the Presbyterian church at "Connecticut Farms" and were buried there, but there is nothing to identify their graves.

Connecticut Farms are in the northern part of the township four miles north-west from Elizabethtown and six miles south-west from Newark. Previous to 1749 a number of families from Connecticut purchased a large tract of land there and gave it the name of "Connecticut Farms." The name of the village has since been changed to Union. At this place the Presbyterian church, still known as the "Conn. Farms" Presbyterian church, was established some time prior to 1749. The first pastor of whom there is any knowledge, was Rev. Mr. Horton. Subsequent pastors have been Revs. Thane, Derbe, Hait, Fish, Smith, Thompson, Street, Converse, and Carnaille the present (1904) pastor.

The first church building was a wooden structure. The date of its erection is not known, as the church and records were burned by the Hessians during the Revolutionary war. It is, however, quite probable that it was built sometime during the early settlement of "Conn. Farms," and probably is one of the oldest Presbyterian churches in the State of New Jersey. Here worshiped many of the Headley ancestors—and in the quiet cemetery adjoining, all that was mortal of the ancestor Samuel Headley, and many of his descendants were laid to rest, there to await the resurrection of the just. At the close of the Revolutionary war, the church was rebuilt by the people with stone from their own quarries, brick from their own brick kilns, and timber from their own woodlands. It is still standing, and although improved within, the walls are the same, and it stands on nearly the same site occupied by the first dwelling.

Samuel Headley made his will May 30, 1745, and reads as follows:—

In the name of God Amen—

The Thirtyeth day of may in ye Eighteenth year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord George ye Second—By the Grace of God King of Great Brittain—France and Ireland—Defender of the faith Annoy Domi One Thousand seven Hundred and forty and five—

DESCENDANTS OF JOSEPH HEADLEY, SON OF SAMUEL HEADLEY, SR.

IV. Joseph Headley, b about 1718, d Oct 1785. It is not known whom he married. He was a farmer and lived at first in Headleytown on land inherited from his father Samuel Headley Sr. evidently where Joseph B. Headley now lives. He later purchased and removed to the property in Headleytown known as Vaux Hall, of which he was the first Headley owner of record. It is also probable that he erected the house on this property and gave it the name it has since borne. Vaux Hall is located about two miles from the village of Union, and is near the Wyoming and Maplewood stations on the Delaware and Lackawanna Railroad. It was quite a large Colonial residence. It had a frontage of at least 50 feet which faced to the south. Had a large wide hall through it, with rooms on both sides. It had very large fire places with fixtures for large heavy iron kettles. On the second floor was a loom for carpet weaving which was destroyed about 1870. The house was pierced by many bullet holes, said to have been made by the British during the Revolutionary war. At this time, and perhaps earlier, it was used as a tavern. The same dwelling was afterwards owned and occupied by Cary Headley, Timothy Headley, Wickliff Headley, until about seven years ago. About 1870 the old dwelling was torn down and a more modern one erected on the site.

During the war of the Revolution there were fought the battles of Conn. Farms and Springfield partly on Headley property, and in which John Thompson Headley, Cary Headley, and others of the Headley family fought against the foe. On the 6th of June, 1780, Gen. Mathews was sent with 5,000 men from Staten Island, with orders to penetrate New Jersey and attack Washington at Morristown.

The next day the British took possession of Elizabethtown and began their march toward Springfield, intending to defeat the Continentals there and proceed on to Morristown. The route taken was along the Galloping Hill Road, which led through Connecticut Farms, (now the village of Union). Here the militia offering resistance, the enemy opened fire, defeated the handful of men, and applying the torch to the few buildings in the village, they continued on their way toward Springfield. Warning of the enemy's approach was given, and at Springfield the British met a detachment of men from Washington's camp at Morristown. A sharp skirmish ensued, in which the British were driven back to the coast.

For two weeks after their repulse at Springfield the enemy hovered around in the vicinity of Elizabeth Town, afraid to attack the continentals with the force at their command. On June 22, Clinton came up from the south with additional troops, and another move against Washington was planned. It was decided to draw the Americans into a general engagement and capture the stores at Morristown. Feigning an expedition to the Hudson Highlands, Clinton deceived Washington who marched away in that direction with a considerable body of men. General Green was left to guard Springfield and the country west and north of the village.

When Washington was well on his way Knyphausen marched along the Galloping Hill Road with 5000 infantry, twenty pieces of artillery and 800 cavalry, and on the 23d attacked General Green at Springfield. The battle waged all day. At one time it seemed as though the British would win. They succeeded in forcing a passage across the bridge spanning the Rahway river there, but at last the continentals repulsed them and sent them scurrying back along the road up which they had marched so confidently that morning. So great was their confusion that they ran until they reached the coast. The British lost 300 men, while the American loss was less than 100. The British had 6000 men to the Americans 1500.

Joseph Headley attended the Presbyterian church at Conn. Farms and was buried there. He made his will Oct. 25, 1785, and reads as follows:—

Children: David, Elizabeth, John, Rachel, Cary, Ann, Mary.

In the name of God Amen I Joseph Headley of Elizabeth Town in the County of Essex and State of New Jersey, being at this time weak in body but of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding. At an early age he learned the trade of pressman. He became an expert in his line and was considered one of the most skillful woodcut pressmen in the country in his time. For a number of years he was superintendent in the pressroom of the Frank Leslie Publishing Co., resigning to become identified with the manufacturing of printing ink with the W. D. Wilson Co. whose plant is in Long Island City with offices in Manhattan. Soon after marriage he joined Young Americus Hook and Ladder Company, and when many of his associates went to war Mr. Ray was unable to do so, as he was minus one of his thumbs, which was cut off by being caught in a printing press. Mr. Ray, in the seventies, was an active factor in Republican politics. At the time each Ward had two Aldermen, who would hold sessions one day as Aldermen, and the next day as Supervisors. The salary was $2,000 per annum. The late Demas Strong and Mr. Ray were the two first Aldermanic representatives under the act of the charter. Mr. Ray was re-elected two terms, and for three years was President of the Common Council. He frequently performed the duties of acting Mayor. He also served as a commissioner of Charities, and was President of the Board for four years. Mr. Ray was one of the prominent members of Eureka Division, No. 187 Sons of Temperance, and at one time was Grand Worthy Associate of the Grand Division. He was a charter member of Williamsburg Lodge, Knights of Honor, to which he belonged at the time of his death. More than 45 years ago he joined Amity Lodge, No. 383 F. and A. M. of New York., but on coming to Brooklyn he joined Manuel, No. 636 of Brooklyn. He was a member of DeWitt Clinton Chapter No. 142 of Royal Arch Masons, and DeWitt Clinton Commandery, No. 27 Knights of Templar, for more than a quarter of a century, and belonged to the Lincoln Club. V. Cary Headley, b Feb 14. 1756, d Feb 1, 1823, m Phebe Stiles of Elizabeth, N. J., daughter of Wm. Stiles, Apr 1, 1781. She was b Mar 15, 1762, d about 1830. Cary Headley was b in Union twp. Union Co. N. J., where he lived and died, and during his life-time followed the pursuits of farming. He was a man of much enterprise and was highly esteemed by his fellow townsmen. He resided on what is now known as Valley Street, about ½ mile south of Wyoming, and owned at least 150 acres. When they were married Mrs. Headley was presented with two slaves, a man and a woman. Cary Headley was a soldier in the Revolutionary war. He entertained George Washington and others in his command at Vaux Hall, and in his woods that afterwards belonged to his grandson John S. Headley, George Washington and his men knelt beside a log and prayed for victory for the patriot army. Cary Headley's house was surrounded by the British for three days. His wife and servants took the cattle and horses over the back side of the Orange mountain and remained there with them until the British left. Before going she threw her silver spoons, pewter plates and platters in the well, also a case of silver was buried in the big wall, and after the war all was recovered. After the war Cary Headley furnished an ox, which was roasted on the Orange mountain, and George Washington partook of it. Nothing further of especial interest is known of Cary Headley's war record. The place in which he had lived contained a number of relics, among which were found in later years, an old carpet loom in the garret, also bayonets, cannon balls, old muskets, and continental money, etc. It has been said that the house had been more than once fired into by the British, and when torn down a large number of bullets were found imbedded in same. A part of the battle of Springfield was fought on Cary Headley's farm. Farmer, Presby.

Mr. Headley's boyhood years were spent on the family estate in Union twp. After acquiring a practical education he repaired to Brooklyn, N. Y. and was apprenticed to Davis M. Afflick with whom he acquired the craft of a mason. During the year 1846 he embarked in business as a builder and continued with success until 1856, when being attracted by the varied advantages of the spot upon which his birth occurred, he returned again to Union twp. and located upon a portion of the property of his ancestor, Cary Headley. To this he succeeded partly by inheritance and partly by purchase, then his sole occupation was farming. The excitements attending political life offered no charms for him, hence he left to others both the honors and rewards of political life. He was a man of unassuming manner, possessing many traits of character which are the exponents of success in life, and which command the respect of the community. DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT HEADLEY, SON OF SAMUEL HEADLEY, SR.

IV. Robert Headley, b at "Conn. Farms," Union Co. N. J. in 1720, d at Milton, N. J. Apr 28, 1806; m Susanna ——. C: Moses, Robert, Lois, Mary. He married second wife, Phebe (Baldwin) Gardner. C: Joseph, Samuel, William, Phebe. He made his will in 1758, and at this time he lived in Essex Co. N. J., and afterwards removed to the Wyoming Valley, Pa., and was one of the few that escaped from the terrible massacre that followed. Robert was very friendly with the Indians, one Indian in particular was a great friend to Robert and just before the massacre warned him to leave as the town would be burned that night. Robert said to the Indian, "You wouldn't hurt me would you?" Indian says, "In time of war Indian knows no friend." So Robert got an old high top Pennsylvania wagon and put in it all the goods he could and at 4 o'clock that afternoon of July 2, 1778, started with his wife, sons Joseph, Samuel, William, daughter Phebe, for New Jersey. After going through the wilds of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, he finally reached the Hopewell mountains in Sussex Co. in the beginning of the winter of 1778, where he built a cabin on what is now the Hayward property and passed the winter. Early in the spring of 1779, he located at Milton, Morris Co. where he built a log house which is still standing on the Headley Homestead and has continued in the Headley name ever since, and is now owned by Frank J. Headley, a great grandson of Robert Headley. The original lands owned by Robert Headley consisted of about six hundred acres and included lands now owned by Edgar H. McCormick; the present Headley Homestead, Charles H. Jennings, William M. Headley, and Edward R. Headley; and perhaps other lands. Nothing is known of his children by his first wife, except that the daughter Mary was married to Michael Stagg

VI. William D. Headley, b in Sussex Co. N. J. July 31, 1787, d in Franklin Co. Ohio, Aug 1, 1862, m †Mary Havens in 1819. She was b in Sussex Co. N. J. Mar 10, 1799, d in Franklin Co. Ohio, Sept 18, 1870. When a small boy William Headley was bound out to his Uncle William Headley near Milton, N. J. with whom he remained until the age of 21 years, when he received an "outfit," which consisted of a horse, bridle, saddle, a suit of clothes, and $50.00 in money. He then took a lease of clearing a piece of timber land, and after clearing a spot, he built a little shanty of poles and clapboards for shelter, and settled down to work clearing the land and burning charcoal, carting the latter 25 miles to market. Thus he began laying the foundation for future prosperity. When he had accumulated together $1500.00 he removed in 1811 to Franklin Co. Ohio, and became one of the pioneer settlers of that county, selecting a location in Jefferson township, at what is now known as Headley's Corners. After locating his future home, he returned to Sussex Co. N. J. with a number of horses. In the spring of 1812, he set out for his Ohio home on horse back. On the trip a willow twig served as a riding whip, which on arriving at his new home he stuck into the ground, and to-day at the front of the old Homestead stands a very large and beautiful weeping willow tree, a memento of his journey.

At that time there were no roads leading to Columbus, and trips to that place were made on horse-back over a path marked by blazed trees.

William Headley in company with his brother Samuel Headley built a saw mill and grist mill on the Black Lick, a stream running through William Headley's farm. The brothers conducted the mills in partnership for some time, after which William Headley purchased his brother's interest in the mills and lands. The mills did duty for many years, and were finally washed away in a flood many years ago.

Great changes have taken place since the first representative of the name came to Ohio where they found large tracts of uncultivated land, forests which stood in their primeval strength, and a few cabins to indicate the progress of civilization. As the years passed William Headley prospered in his business and at the time of his death he owned 500 acres of valuable land all acquired through industry and good management. He was the first Postmaster at Head-ley's Corners, and held the office for many years, dispensing the mail from his residence. He was not a member of any church, but a Universalist in faith, and contributed quite largely to religious work. VII. Ezekiel W. Headley, b in Franklin Co. Ohio, Dec 19, 1830, m Mary M. Foster Feb 14, 1883, at Oregon, Mo. P O Oregon, Mo. He attended school during his youth at "Headley's Corners." In the spring of 1852, he accompanied an emigrant train of 36 men, including his brother William Headley, to California. At St. Joseph, Mo. they purchased their equipments for the journey, consisting of nine wagons, with three yokes of oxen to each wagon. After a journey of 126 days, they reached their destination at Eureka Quartz Mines, and Poorman's Creek, where they found gold in considerable quantities. In the bed of Poor-man's Creek they found not only small pieces of gold but often large nuggets of great value. Before becoming acclimated he took "mountain fever" and came near to death's door, but recovered, and during his convalesence, while not able to work, he employed his time reading the Bible from beginning to end.

They remained in California two years; endured many hardships, many times sleeping beside logs with an umbrella for protection from the rain until a cabin was built. In the spring of 1854 he came to New York City, where he remained sight-seeing for about a month, after which he went to Philadelphia to get his gold dust coined, (about $5,000), and then returned to the parentel home in Ohio, where he engaged in farming for his father in the farming season and teaching school in the winter. After being thus employed for two years, he entered Central College, Ohio, remaining one year, taught one term of school, then went to Westerville College, Ohio, for two years, after which he taught three terms of school. In the spring of 1859, he in company with his cousin George Havens went to St. Joseph, Mo., where they found the City full of people with the "Pike's Peak fever," which they also contracted, and fell in line, purchasing their wagons at $135.00 each, with four yokes of oxen to each wagon, which they loaded with flour, groceries, dried fruits, patent medicine, lard, bacon, etc. On arriving at the Peak they put up a Grocery store, and connected with it a resturant, and found ready sale for every article in their line, which was soon disposed of at a very satisfactory profit. They invested their money in emigrant cattle and located on a rancho in Ray Co. Mo., where he engaged in farming until the breaking out of the Civil war in 1861, when he joined the Home Guards, Company C., and was appointed by Col. Hale, on the Colonel's staff and sent to St. Joseph, Mo. as Regimental Commissary Sargeant, for the 4th Provisional Regiment, E. M. M. He remained in this office two years. At the close of the war there came an order to reform themselves into companies, and he was appointed by Gov. Fletcher, 2nd Lieutenant. However, as the war was decidedly settled the companies were soon disbanded, and Mr. Headley once more returned to farming and stock raising. In 1868, he sold his Ray Co. farm and went to DeKalb Co. Mo., where, in 1856, he had entered a half section of land, which he improved and made his home for 15 years. This property he sold Mar 1, 1904, for $12,840. He is now the owner of a fine farm in Holt Co. Mo. of 200 acres valued at $90.00 per acre, and where he expects to remain until called by his Divine Master. He, Universalist; wife, Meth Ep. C: Charles, Ezekiel, Orloff.

Headley purchased a grocery store from James Judson at Hilton, N. J. One year later he sold out his interest to his brother Sears R. and then went to learn Bank Note Engraving and Transferring with Rawdon Wright, Hatch & Edson, in Merchants Exchange, Cor. Wall & Wm. Sts., N. Y. City, then under the old system of Bank Notes. In two or three years the company consolidated with several other companies—Danforth, Wright & Co; Bald Baldwin; Cousland & Co; Toppan, Carpenter & Co; Wellstood, Hay & Whiting, N. Y. City; John E. Gavitt Co. of Albany, N. Y; and a Philadelphia Co., taking the name of American Bank Note Co.

N. Y. They soon commenced the present system of National Currency. Several of their designs of notes are still in existance. They made it possible for the existance of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, Washington, D. C. Through the efforts of the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, Salmon P. Chase, Mr. Headley was employed in Washington, D. C., years 1869–1883, several years each; again in the year 1900, and is still there. He favors Spiritualism. C: Freddie, Laura, Lillian, Albert.

V. Samuel Headley, Jr. b at Union, N. J. Sept 3, 1768, d June 29, 1841, m Elizabeth Miller Oct 28, 1791. She was b at Westfield, N. J. Dec 20, 1771, d Feb 15, 1844. His principal occupation was the making of Mast Hoops for sailing vessels. He also owned a fine farm at Headleytown, where he died, and which he operated successfully. Samuel Headley was the personification of love and kindness to all with whom he came in contact. He never would allow himself to speak harshly or unkind to any one. His grandson, Mr. Wm. E. Mooney, who, when a mere child, was a member of Mr. Headley's family for a great part of fifteen years, says, he was often in his way, but instead of commanding him harshly to get out of the way, he would send him off on errands, or would give him some of Dr. Watts' hymns, or a chapter in the Bible to commit to memory, which, from the love he bore to his grandfather, he cheerfully performed. Samuel Headley not only applied the law of kindness to human kind, but to the brute creation as well. Mr. Mooney relates that he and several other boys were one day discovered by his grandfather making sport of a large toad to see it try to escape, when he said to them in the kindest and most pleading manner: "Oh, I am so sorry that you should take delight in tormenting that poor creature. Don't you know that the same God who made you made the toad also?" Thus appealing to their sympathies they promised him never again to practice unkindness towards anything. The law that Christ laid down—"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's," was uppermost in his mind and was his favorite text; and he spared no pains to instill into the youthful minds about him the principles of strict justice and truth. While he was not in the habit of praising any one personally, he would manage to have some old person of his acquaintance tell the youngsters "Uncle Sam says you are good boys." He would say, "Boys never attempt to elevate yourselves by traducing some one else, for as sure as you do you will find it like riding on a wheelbarrow wheeling yourself."

In the fall of 1840 he became afflicted with a cancer. He bore his suffering with the greatest christian fortitude, often exclaiming: "The God I love, suffered for me, and should not I endure for him? They that would reign with Christ must also suffer with Him." And again he would say, "Oh, dear boys, learn to love the Savior now so that you may have nothing to regret when you arrive at my age. He is all my comfort now." He died as he had lived, loved and respected by all that knew him. Children: Esther, Rebecca, Stephen, Eliza, Samuel, Moses.

VI. Rev. Stephen Headley Meeker, b Oct 17, 1799, m—. He graduated at Columbia College in 1821, and after his theological course was licensed as a minister of the Reformed church in 1824, and in Aug of this year he supplied the Old Bushwick Reformed church, and in December following he received and accepted a call to become its pastor, and was duly installed in Feb 1825.

The congregation then worshiped in the old octagonal church, erected in 1705. In 1829 this church was torn down and a new church erected on the same site.

In May 1830 Mr. Meeker accepted a call to a church in Jersey City, but a strong mutual attachment had sprung up between him and the members of the Bushwick church, and in the following November in compliance with an earnest requisition from his former parishoners, he returned, remaining their pastor until his death, and by them was regarded with almost idolatrous affection.

At the fiftieth anniversary of Mr. Meeker's settlement over this church he stated that he had not been kept from his pulpit by sickness but one Sabbath in forty years, that he had celebrated communion in the church 200 times, had married 1076 couples, and attended 1275 funerals. During the long period of his ministry he devoted himself to the welfare of his congregation with singular fidelity. He was the father of five daughters and two sons. One of the sons died in early childhood, and the other at 19 years. One of the daughters married but had no children.

DESCENDANTS OF ISAAC HEADLEY, SON OF SAMUEL HEADLEY, SR.

IV. Isaac Headley, b—, d—, m ——— Piatt, of New Jersey. He was probably the eldest son of his father, and with the exception of a few shilling had received his full share of his father's estate, prior to the making of his father's will in 1745. He probably lived for a time in *Morris Co. N. J., and perhaps later removed either to New York State or to Pennsylvania. Three brothers, evidently sons of the above Isaac Headley, by name of Samuel, James and Richard, removed from New Jersey to Luzerne Co. Pa. Samuel Headley was one of the minute men during the Revolution, and Richard was an enlisted soldier. About the time of the Wyoming massacre these three brothers escaped to Chemung Co. New York, but later Samuel Headley returned to Exeter, Pennsylvania. There may have been other children besides the three brothers mentioned.

V. Samuel Headley, b—, d—, m Hannah MacAfee of New Jersey. Was a minute man during the Revo. C: Thomas, Priscilla, Celinda, Hannah, Mary, Isaac.

VI. Thomas Headley, b—, m—. Children: J——, etc.

*J. V. B. Headley of Wyoming Co. Pa. says his grandfather (Samuel Headley) was born in Morris Co. N. J.

At some time a descendant of Samuel Headley Sr. (who made his will 1745), settled in Morris Co. N. J. . . . . three brothers, descendants of same named Samuel, James and Richard, came to Luzerne Co. Pa.

Boyd Headley of Wilkesbarre, Pa. writes (1895) that Mrs. J. S. Headley and son W. C. Headley of Newark N. J. have the old family Bible with records of the family for a century back, indicating that he, (Boyd Headley) descends from the same Headley line as Mrs. J. S. Headley and son.

VII. J. V. B. Headley, b—, m—. C: Boyd, Lizzie.

V. James Headley, removed from Luzerne Co. Pa. to Chemung Co. N. Y., where it is said descendants still live.

V. Richard Headley removed from Luzerne Co. Pa. to Chemung Co. N. Y., where descendants are said to still live. Richard Headley was an enlisted soldier in the Revolution.

ABNER HEADLEY.

II. Abner Headley is supposed to have been a son of Leonard Headley, but nothing is known of him except that his name appears on records at Elizabeth N. J. 1700—1702.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT HEADLEY, SON OF ——— HEADLEY.

III. Robert Headley, b—, d at "Conn. Farms" between Rahway and Elizabeth, N. J. It is not known whon he married. The children as far as known were *Phebe and Isaac.

*There is some uncertainty as to the ancestry of Phebe and Isaac Headley. "Aunt" Polly Minton, a grand-daughter of Phebe (Headley) Gardner, said her great grandfather's name was Robert Headley, but afterwards said she was not sure that it was Robert. However, his ancestry is not positively known, but as he lived at "Conn. Farms," in the immediate vicinity in which the descendants of the Emigrant Leonard Headley of Elizabethtown lived, it is quite probable that he may have been a grandson of Leonard Headley and a brother of (III) Samuel Headley, Sr. of "Headleytown."

Will C. Headley, Attorney of Newark, N. J. writes: "It is my opinion that Isaac Headley, b 1735, is a son of Robert Headley, brother of Samuel Headley who made his will in 1745."

Mr. C. C. Gardner of Newark, N. J. who has collected considerable data of the Headley family writes: "Richard Headley, b 1742, in Westchester, N. Y., married a Drake, and had Samuel and Robert; possibly Phebe and Isaac were grandchildren of one of these men Samuel or Robert?"

DESCENDANTS OF PHEBE HEADLEY, OF "CONN. FARMS."

IV. Phebe Headley, b at "Conn. Farms," Aug 21, 1731, d Sept 1, 1764, m Thomas Gardner* in 1750. He was b at Westchester, N. Y. Mar 2, 1724, d Oct 1, 1795. Soon after his father's death, which occurred in 1733, he came to Essex Co. New Jersey, and settled in Springfield, then called "Newark township." Although he may have lived at first in what is now the city of Newark, considering the frequency with which his name is mentioned in connection with the great land riots at Newark from 1745 to 1748. The cause of these disturbances was the contention between the settlers and the English proprietors, concerning the title to the lands. The settlers held under their Indian title and refused to recognize any other. Suits against the settlers were decided in favor of the proprietors, and many of the former were thrown into jail. Their fellow townsmen, however, would not stand this and several times in the years 1745-46-48 they broke into the jails and liberated those incarcerated by order of the proprietors. In 1748 Thomas Gardner, Junr. and Benjamin Gardner were indicted on the charge of *Great grandson of Henry Gardner; grandson of John Gardner, and son of Thomas Gardner. The first named Henry Gardner, who probably came from Europe, lived and died at Westchester, N. Y., where he is known to have been as early as 1665. He was married to Elizabeth, daughter of John Cromwell, about 1664.

John Gardner, eldest son of Henry, was b Mar 25, 1670, m Hannah ———, and probably died before his only son Thomas became of age. The latter, Thomas Gardner, b at Westchester, N. Y. about 1700, lived and died there. He was married to Sarah, daughter of William and Sarah Smith. He made his will Apr 21, 1732, and died in 1733. His children were—Thomas, Benjamin, Hannah, Elizabeth, Sarah.

being members of a party that took Amos Roberts from jail. The official account of the matter states that on the 28th of November Amos Roberts was committed by the Sheriff to goal on a Process of Treason. Towards evening a large crowd surrounded the goal in riotous and tumultous manner, and, having it open took from thence the said Amos Roberts. These riots which were frequent in the colony were at the time when there were Jacobite risings in Scotland and a revolt in India. The revolutionary spirit was caught by colonists and the trouble marks a growing desire on their part to throw off the English Yoke. Soon after these disturbances Thomas Gardner* was married to Phebe Headley. She was doubtless the daughter of Samuel Headley whose will dated 1744–names wife Mary and eight children. Thomas Gardner is buried with the greater portion of his family in the old cemetery at Springfield, the inscription on his tombstone reading— "In memory of Thomas Gardner, who died Oct 1, 1795, in the 72 year of his age."

"My flesh shall slumber in the ground
Till the last trumpet's joyful sound;
Then burst the chains with sweet surprise,
And in my Savior's image rise."

It is related that one day the mother went to town with one of the children, leaving the rest at home. When she returned, late in the afternoon, she found the 25 left at home sitting on the fence crying. On inquiring the reason she found it was because they were so lonely! He then entered Auburn Theological Seminary as a divinity student, and later was ordained a Presbyterian Clergyman and settled at Stockbridge, Mass. until his health broke down and he was compelled to relinquish his chosen profession and go abroad. After a trip to Europe he took up newspaper work, and for a time was associate editor of the New York Tribune. This however he soon abandoned for authorship. Among other books he wrote—"Napoleon and his Marshalls," "Washington and his Generals," "Life of Washington," "Life of Cromwell," "Life of Havelock," "Lives of Scott and Jackson," "History of the War of 1812," "Sacred Mountains," "Sacred Scenes and Characters," "Sacred Heroes and Martyrs," "The Imperial Guard," "Chaplins of the Revolution," "The Great Rebellion," "Life of Farragut and our Naval Commanders," "Lives of Grant and Sherman," "History of the Great Riots," "Headley's Miscellanies." In 1855 he was elected to the New York State Legislature. Mr. Headley at that time figured conspicuously as a leader in the native American movements. In 1856 he was elected Secretary of State for the State of N. Y. Presby. C: Russell, Lucy, Joel.

Mr. Headley attended Hamilton and Amherst colleges, receiving his degree from the latter. At one time he and his brother J. T. Headley were both in charge of a New York academy, as assistant and principal respectively. While teaching in the academy at Auburn, N. Y. he entered upon the study of law under Ex-Gov. Hubbell of New York State, and was admitted to practice at the New York bar by the Supreme Court of the state in 1845. But in accordance with his mother's wishes and a growing desire on his own part, he left the bar for the Theolog cal Seminary at Auburn, N. Y., where he graduated and became pastor of the Presbyterian church at Adams, Mass. This pastorate was followed by charges at Sandwich, Mass. in 1854, and Plymouth and Greenfield, Mass. in 1861, in which latter place he had his longest and most fruitful pastorate. Since then his time was devoted largely to writing books and literary pursuits. Like his brother, J. T.

Headley, he wrote largely on historical subjects; by many their works were regarded as the dawn of a new era in that department of literature, as they endeavored to take History and Biography out of the dry place into which they had fallen and clothe them with real life and render them enjoyable and profitable reading. Mr. Headley's works comprise, "Empress Josephine;" "Mary Queen of Scots;" "Lafayette;" "Napoleon;" "Louis Kossuth;" "Secret Service of the U. S. in the Civil War;" "Half Hours in Bible Lands;" "Court and Camp of David;" "Women of the Bible;" "Evangelists in the Church;" "Life and Labors of Geo. F. Pentecost;" "Islands of Fire, or Iceland;" "Massachusetts in the Rebellion." He also wrote the lives of Gens. Grant, Sherman, Ericson, Sheridan, Mitchell, Lincoln and other public men. Having a personal acquaintance with Gen. Grant and other generals he wrote authoritatively and not wholly on borrowed data. When Louis Kossuth was in this country he met and conferred with him. Being a modest man, underestimating his own achievements, he avoided publicity and honors proffered him. The main purpose of his whole career was to influence thought intelligently and morally. Fame and wealth never tempted him to lose sight of his high ideal and wish to instruct and benefit mankind. While he reached, perhaps, a larger audience by his books than was possible by the pastoral relation, his devoted and effective service was given, first of all, to the ministry, which always held the supreme place in his heart. D. for over four years, then a few months at Ft. Thomas, Cincinnatti; and for over a year at Ft. McPherson, Atlanta, Ga. He was transferred to Ft. Hancock, N. DESCENDANTS OF JOHN HEADLEY, SON OF —— HEADLEY.

I. John Headley,* b in New Jersey June 24, 1779, d at Hadley, Pa. Oct 29, 1854, m Sophia Luce in 1804. She was b June 10, 1779, in New Jersey. In his youth he was bound out to a German farmer in Sussex Co. New Jersey. After marriage he engaged in farming in Sussex Co. N. J. until 1817, when, with his wife and four sons he started for Ohio, which was then "The West." The trip over the mountains and through the dense forest was made in a one horse wagon. To attempt a trip of this kind with a wife and four small children, must certainly have required some genuine pioneer grit. They settled on Bull Creek, near what is now Waterford, in Columbiana Co. C: Sarah, David, Thomas, Aaron, Isaac, Charity, Hannah, Margaret, Samuel.

II. Sarah Headley, b Sept 13, 1805, d infant.

II. David Luce Headley, b in Sussex Co. N. J. Dec 9, 1806, d at Hadley, Pa. Dec 2, 1884, m Jane Robinson Oct 22, 1828. She d July 15, 1874. C: William, John, Robinson, Sophia, Robert, David, Margaret. David m second wife, Hannah Kelso, Aug 5, 1875. She d Apr 15, 1876. David m 3rd wife, E. Jane Kelso, Aug 9, 1877. In 1830 David L. Headley moved with his family from Columbiana, to Trumbull Co. Ohio; and in the Spring of 1843, from there to Mercer County, Pa. where he purchased 100 acres of land from Thos. Robinson for a consideration of $6.00 per acre. This farm and the surrounding country was all dense woods. He proceeded at once to build a double log house, one fourth of a mile south of the village of Hadley. In 1847 he sold 75 acres to Ward & Russell, on which they erected the Old Mineral Ridge Furnace, and the same year Mr. Headley purchased 100 acres about ½ mile east of the former 100 acres. To the log house already on this place he built an addition and moved his family there in the spring of 1848. In 1857 he sold the place and bought 160 acres where the town of Hadley, Pa. now stands, and built thereon the house known as the Hadley Homestead, which still remains in the family, being now owned by Mr. H. S. and Margaret Jane (Hadley) Lyons. A few years later David Headley bought 125 acres adjoining this on the west, making in all a farm of about 285 acres. Some time prior to this, for some reason unaccounted for, a slight change was made in the spelling of the name. The first "e" was omitted, making it "Hadley," and thus the name is written by the entire connection. During the life time of David L. Hadley he laid out a cemetery on his property on a hill over-looking the beautiful Shenango Valley, which he owned until his death, and in which he lies buried. He was a staunch Democrat. Early in life he connected himself with the Presbyterian church. After removing to Mercer Co. Pa. in 1843, he identified himself with the Old Georgetown Presbyterian church, (now Sheakleyville), and was soon made an elder. He was the leading spirit in establishing the Hadley Presbyterian church in 1874. It is a beautiful edifice, standing on the hill above the town; a mighty sentinal to protect the town and country folks against the blandishments of the evil one, and is a fitting monument to his energy and sturdy christian character. He was an elder of this church from the time of its organization until his death.

*His ancestry is not known, but as he was born in New Jersey and lived during his youth in the near vicinity of the descendants of the emigrant Leonard Headley of Elizabethtown, N. J., he is also believed to have been a descendant of Leonard Headley.

IV. Rev. Nathaniel James Hadley, b in Springfield twp Mahoning Co. O. Nov 17, 1866, m Myrtle Bowsher Dec 18, 1895. Res. 575 Second Ave. Lorain, Ohio. His boyhood days were spent on a farm. After attending the district schools he took a course in the Poland Union Seminary, which, in its day was one of Ohio's most famous preparatory institutions. Mr. Hadley's course was an intermitted one, and in the intervals between the periods of study he engaged in teaching. He later entered North Normal College at Canfield, O. In the fall of 1887 he matriculated in Wittenberg College, Springfield, O, and graduated at that institution with the degree of B. A. in 1891. In the fall of the same year he entered Wittenberg Theological Seminary, and on the completion of a three-year course the degree of Bachelor of Divinity was conferred upon him. The same year his Alma Mater bestowed upon him the degree of Master of Arts. Immediately afterward, in the fall of 1894, he was ordained as a minister of the gospel by the Wittenberg Synod of the English Lutheran church at Bellefontaine, Ohio, having been licensed to preach the gospel by the same religious authority the previous year. In May 1894 Rev. Mr. Hadley took charge of his first congregation at West Liberty, Ohio, a town of about 1500 population. There he remained in successful and harmonious relations with his flock until called to a broader field Mar 15, 1898, in Galion, Ohio, where he served the Christ English Lutheran church for five years.

Rev. Mr. Hadley's work in Galion well illustrates the force of character of the man. Young and energetic he went to work with a will, wiped out an indebtedness and established the church organization on a basis which has added to its power and influence, and greatly increased the congregation in number. During his pastorate in Galion the church was remodeled and reopened free of debt. When the new congregation was organized at Lorain, Ohio, the Board of Home Missions selected Rev. Mr. Hadley to take up that work, and he became its first pastor October 1, 1903. During the first eight months the membership grew to nearly one hundred, and was fast becoming one of the strongest and most influential churches of Lorain, Ohio.

When in Logan county Ohio, he was president of the county Christian Endeavor Union, and during his incumbency in the office of the county had the distinction of winning the banner offered by the State Association for the best organization and for the progress and work of the year. While in Galion he served for a term at the head of the Crawford County Christian Endeavor Union. He served several terms as president of the Ministers' Union in Galion and three successive years as secretary of Wittenberg Synod. While in Galion he edited an eight-page parish paper entitled the "Lutheran Visitor." Mrs. Hadley, who had taken a select course at Wittenberg College, and was previously a teacher in the public schools of Millersburg, Ohio, is a lady of superior intelligence and culture, and is of great assistance to her husband in the exercise of the high functions of his holy calling. IV. Rev. Henry Clement Hadley, b in Mahoning Co. Ohio, Mar 7, 1868, m Loretta May Smith Sept 19, 1899. Res. 84 Irvington St. Cleveland, Ohio. His boyhood days were spent on his father's farm, attending a country school in the winter. At an early age he believed he was called to preach the gospel, and he united with the English Evangelical Lutheran church at the age of 14. He attended the North Eastern Ohio Normal College at Canfield, O., a part of the time from 1886-1888. He then taught school three years. He entered Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, in 1891, and graduated in 1895, having entirely paid his own way through College. During his summer vacations he canvassed for books. In Sept 1895 he entered Wittenberg Theological Seminary at Springfield, Ohio, and graduated in June 1898. At this time he received the degree of Master of Arts from his Alma Mater. He was ordained a minister of the gospel at Lima, Ohio, Oct 3, 1898, and later became pastor of St. John's Lutheran ch. of Ohio City, Ohio, June 1, 1898. This church had a membership of 64 and a very burdensome debt. During a pastorate of 4 years 105 members were received, the debt paid off, and many improvements made; over $4,000. being contributed during the pastorate. He accepted a unanimous and urgent call to the Christian Endeavor Memorial Lutheran Church of Cleveland, Ohio, July 1, 1902. This church also had a very heavy debt and only a membership of 85. During the two years which have just passed the debt has been entirely liquidated, the membership more than doubled, the salary increased, and many improvements made.
